DMM Publications

June, 2010

Table of Contents

1. Books 2
2. Special DMM issue of Clinical Child Psychology & Psychiatry 2
3. Overview of DMM assessments 3
4. Empirical studies using the CARE-Index 3
   - Adolescent mothers 3
   - Drug abusing mothers 3
   - Maternal psychiatric disorder 3
   - Handicapping conditions 4
   - Maltreated infants 4
   - Prematurity 5
   - Toddlers 5
   - Institutionalization 5
   - Normative studies 5
   - Predictive longitudinal studies 7
   - Intervention studies 7
5. Empirical studies using the Infant Strange Situation 8
6. Empirical studies using the Preschool Assessment of Attachment (PAA) 8
7. Empirical studies using the School-aged Assessment of Attachment (SAA) 11
8. Empirical studies in adolescence (AAI/TAAI) 11
9. Empirical studies using the Adult Attachment Interview (DMM-AAI) 11
10. Other empirical studies 13
11. Empirical studies in process 14
12. Theory and applications 14
13. Reviews of Raising Parents 21

Books

Special DMM Issue of Clinical Child Psychology & Psychiatry, July, 2010

Overview of DMM Assessments

Empirical Studies Using the CARE-Index

Risk Studies

1. Adolescent mothers
   See also Cassidy, et al., Leadbeater, et al. and Linares et al., below

2. Drug abusing mothers; drug exposed infants
   See also Linares et al.

3. Maternal psychiatric disorder

4. Handicapping conditions

5. Maltreated infants

6. Prematurity

7. Toddlers

8. Institutionalization

Плешкова Н.Л., Мухамедрахимов Р.Ж. Особенности привязанности у детей в семьях и домах ребенка //Дефектология, 2008, №2, С. 37-44.

Normative Studies

Predictive Longitudinal Studies

Howieson, N., Crittenden, P. M., & Priddis, L. (under review). Change and continuity: The impact of migration on transgenerational patterns of attachment

Intervention Studies

Jennings, T. (2004). A study exploring whether maternal sensitivity can be enhanced by health visitor intervention (guided by clinical psychology consultation), using video feedback. Thesis presented to the faculty of clinical psychology at the University of Teesside in partial fulfilment of the doctorate in psychology.

Also Svanberg, et al. (SSP)

Empirical Studies Using the Infant Strange Situation – DMM

Empirical Studies Using the PAA

Empirical Studies Using the SAA

Empirical Studies in Adolescence (Using the TAAI/AAI)

Empirical Studies Using the AAI (DMM)

Published

Under review

Theses

Case studies

Other Empirical Studies

Empirical Studies in Process

Bendiksbysy, O. Understanding adolescents who commit rape: A psychological study of young violent sex offenders.

Brasola, S., & Crittenden, P. Comparing Main & Goldwyn and DMM classifications of AAIs of women with and without childhood elective mutism.

Crittenden, P., & Kulbotten, G. Attachment in adults with avoidant personality disorder, mixed psychiatric disorder, and no disorder.

Crittenden, P., Robson, K., & Tooby, A. Validation of the School-age Assessment of Attachment (SAA).

Farnfield, S. Adult attachment strategies of people applying to adopt children

Kozlowska, K., Crittenden, P., & Landini, A. Relations among school-aged siblings’ pattern of attachment.

Lambruschi, F. Ciotti, F., & Crittenden, P. Psychotherapists’ attachment and choice of treatment theory.

Moraga, C. Interactions between Institutionalized Infants and Multiple Caregivers.

Svanburg, P.O., The impact of baby’s gender and birth order on mother's sensitive responsiveness.

Wilberg, T., Karterud, S., Irion, T., & Urnes, Ø., et al, Ullevål personality (disorder) project.

Sarfi, M. Children of women in Medical Assisted Rehabilitation (MAR): Developmental predictors of later problem functioning.

Theory & Applications

Milch, W., & Sahhar, N. (2010). Zur Bedeutung der Bindungstheorie für die Psychotherapie Psychotherapie 15, Bd. 15, Heft 1© CIP-Medien, München

Assessment related

Reviews of Raising Parents

Rizza, G. (in process). British Association of Social Workers (Scotland)